HOW AUSTRALIA DECIDES

Election Reporting and the Media

By Sally Young

Australian Author

In recent years, the Australian media have come under fire for their reporting of politics and election campaigns. Political reporting is said to be too influenced by commercial concerns, too obsessed with gossip and scandal, and too focused on trivia and 'sound bites' at the expense of serious issues. There are accusations of bias, sensationalism, 'lazy' journalism and 'horse-race' reporting that is obsessed with opinion polls.

How Australia Decides is the first book to put these allegations to the test. Based on a four year empirical study, Sally Young reports the results of the only systematic, historical and in-depth analysis of Australian election reporting. This groundbreaking book shows how election reporting has changed over time, and how political news audiences, news production and shifts in political campaigning are influencing media content – with profound implications for Australian democracy.

The Architect of Victory

The Military Career of Lieutenant General Sir Frank Horton Berryman

By Peter Dean

Australian Author

Lieutenant General Sir Frank Berryman is one of the most important, yet relatively unknown officers in the history of the Australian Army. Despite his reputedly caustic personality and noted fallouts with senior officials, Berryman was critical to Australia's success during World War II. But did the man known as 'Berry the Bastard' deserve his reputation? Bold, calculated and talented, Berryman was at the forefront of operations that led to the defeat of the Japanese and his tactical planning secured Australia's victory at Bardia, Tobruk and other battles during the Pacific War.

With access to rare private papers, this book charts Berryman's special relationship with senior US officials such as Macarthur and explains why the man poised to become the next Chief of General Staff would never fulfil his ambition.

Darwin, God and the Meaning of Life

How Evolutionary Theory Undermines Everything You Thought You Knew

In this intriguing book, Steve Stewart-Williams addresses fundamental philosophical questions raised by evolutionary theory

by Steve Stewart-Williams, University of Wales

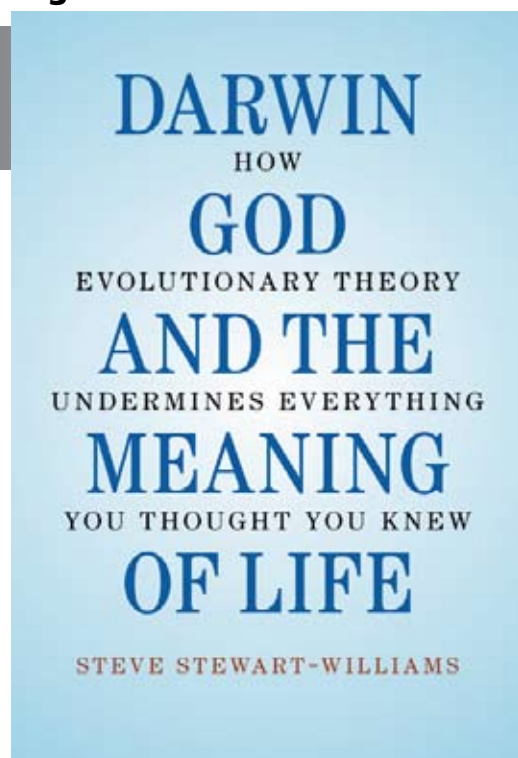

Philosophy. If you accept evolutionary theory, can you also believe in God? Does Darwin have implications for heated issues like euthanasia and animal rights? In this fascinating and intriguing book, Steve Stewart-Williams addresses these and other fundamental philosophical questions raised by evolutionary theory and the exciting new field of evolutionary psychology.

- Argues that Darwinian science supports a view of a godless universe devoid of ultimate purpose or moral structure, but that we can still live a good life and a happy life within the confines of this view
- Brings together philosophy and evolutionary psychology in a way that will open up debate between the two disciplines

Edited by George Lawson, London School of Economics and Political Science et al.

An international group of prominent scholars investigate the mixed, paradoxical and even contradictory outcomes engendered by these events, unravelling the intricacies of this important moment in world history.
