Life and Loss in the Shadow of the Holocaust

A Jewish Family's Untold Story

A unique account of a German-Jewish family trying to escape the Holocaust, based on a remarkable collection of recently discovered letters and diaries.

by Rebecca Boehling, University of Maryland and Uta Larkey, Goucher College

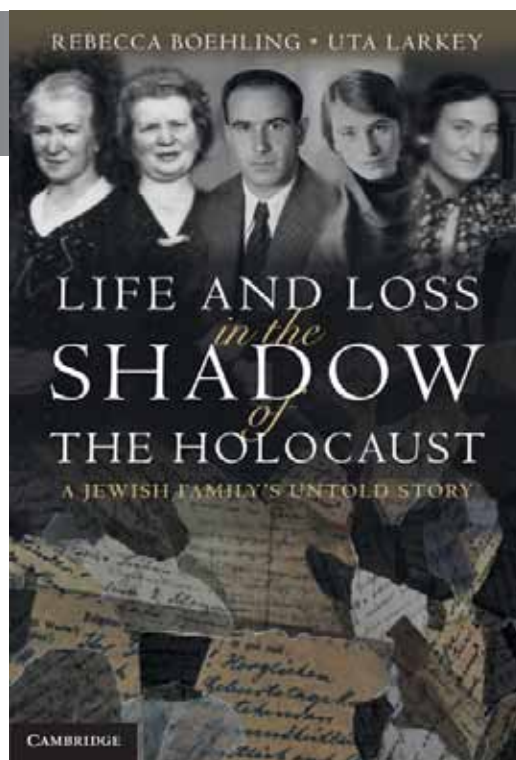

History. A family's recently discovered correspondence provides the inspiration for this fascinating and deeply moving account of Jewish family life before, during and after the Holocaust. The authors show how the Kaufmann-Steinberg family was pulled apart under the pressures of living under Nazism and trace their fate in Germany, the US and Palestine. The authors capture the family members' fluctuating emotions of hope, optimism, resignation and despair. Headed by two sisters who were among the first female business owners in Essen, the family's their story contributes new dimensions to our understanding of Jewish life in Germany and in exile during these dark years.

Key features:

- A unique account of a German-Jewish family trying to escape the Holocaust, based on a remarkable collection of letters and diaries.
- Illuminates the day-to-day experience of exile and the lives of those left behind.
- Captures the dynamics of everyday family life during extraordinary times.

Ireland

A History

New to Paperback

An acclaimed new history of Ireland from the Iron Age to the present by one of the country's leading historians.

by Thomas Bartlett, University of Aberdeen

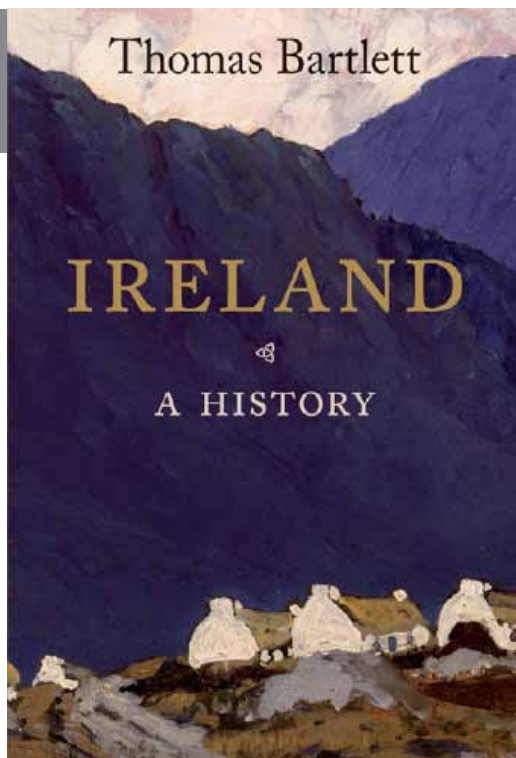

History. Ireland has rarely been out of the news during the past thirty years. Whether as a war-zone in which Catholic nationalists and Protestant Unionists struggled for supremacy, a case study in conflict resolution or an economy that for a time promised to make the Irish among the wealthiest people on the planet, the two Irelands have truly captured the world's imagination. Here, Thomas Bartlett, one of the country's leading historians, sets out a magisterial new history of Ireland from prehistory to the present. Examining Irish politics, society, culture and economic history, Thomas Bartlett traces the long evolution of the two Irish states which emerged in the early twentieth century as well as the problems that confront them both in the twenty-first century.

Key features:

- An acclaimed new history of Ireland from the Iron Age to the present by one of the country's leading historians.
- Sets Irish history within the context of developments in Europe, the United States and the British Empire.
- Extensively illustrated.

The Drug Effect

Health, Crime and Society

Australian Author

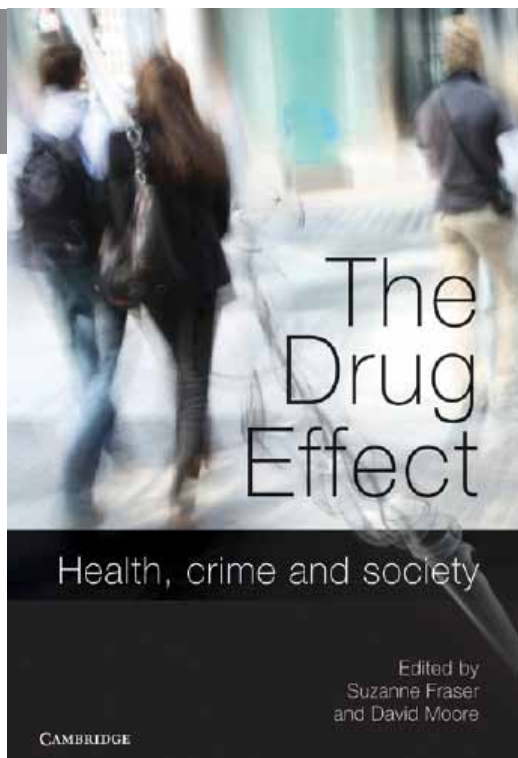

Explores social and cultural meanings of drug use and analyses law enforcement and public health frameworks related to drug policy.

Edited by Suzanne Fraser, Monash University and David Moore, Curtin University of Technology

Sociology. The Drug Effect: Health, Crime and Society offers new perspectives on debates in the field of drug use. Written by scholars in Australia, the US, the UK and Canada, it explores social and cultural meanings of drug use and analyses law enforcement and public health frameworks related to drug policy. In doing so, it addresses key questions of drug use and addiction through interdisciplinary, predominantly sociological and criminological, perspectives, mapping and building on recent conceptual and empirical advances in the field. These include questions of materiality and agency, the social constitution of disease and neo-liberal subjectivity and responsibility.

Key features:

- Written by international leaders in the field of drug use and emerging scholars working at the cutting edge of research.
- Offers individual pieces and an overarching critical analysis that can be used both as a research resource and as a teaching tool.
- Provides fresh, new perspectives on critical debates.

The Living Cosmos

Our Search for Life in the Universe

Explores the extreme limits of life on Earth, and the search for life on Mars and other parts of the Solar System.

by Chris Impey, University of Arizona

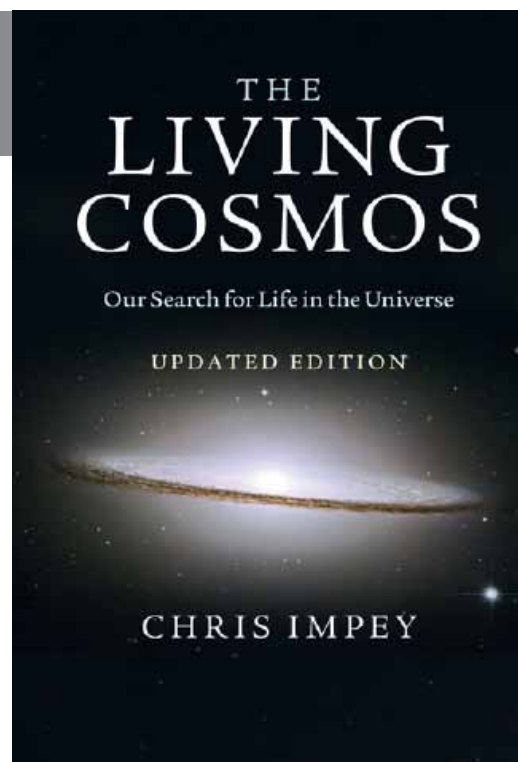

Astronomy. Considering the development of life on Earth, the existence of life in extreme environments and the potential for life elsewhere in the Universe, this book is a fascinating insight into our place in the Universe. Chris Impey leads the reader through the history, from the Copernican revolution to the emergence of the field of astrobiology – the study of life in the cosmos. He examines how life on Earth began, exploring its incredible variety and the extreme environments in which it can survive. Finally, Impey turns his attention to our Solar System and the planets beyond, discussing whether there may be life elsewhere in the Universe.

Key features:

- Accompanied by a website hosted by the author featuring podcasts, articles and news stories.
- Explores the extreme limits of life on Earth, and the search for life on Mars and other parts of the Solar System.
- Discusses how the fascinating field of astrobiology is changing our views of life and our place in the Universe.

Israel under the Premiership of Moshe Sharett

by Robert Jarman

Politics. The second in a series of collections of British political and economic reports on Israel. The premiership of Moshe Sharett was important particularly for efforts made to come to a peaceful settlement that involved financial aid for the resettlement of Arab refugees and security guarantees for Israel within agreed borders.

Series and Products from the Fifteenth to the Twenty-first Century

by Ranjan Roy, Beloit College, Wisconsin

Mathematics. Ranjan Roy describes many facets of the discovery and use of infinite series and products as worked out by their originators, including Wallis, Newton, Euler, Gauss, Jacobi, Cayley, Sylvester and Hilbert. The text provides context and motivation for these discoveries, with many detailed proofs, offering a valuable perspective on modern mathematics.

The Garnaut Review 2011: Australia in the Global Response to Climate Change
by Ross Garnaut

"Ross Garnaut is one of Australia's greatest ever "public servants". His contribution to the major reforms of the Australian economy under my government was profound and indispensable...Garnaut has now brought his formidable intellect, and integrity, to analyse the greatest challenge of our times – Global Warming. Whatever your politics – or prejudices – if you are concerned for our nation and its future generations this is a "must read". – Bob Hawke

In this update to the 2008 Garnaut Climate Change Review, Ross Garnaut re-examines the case for action in the aftermath of the global financial crisis and recent developments by major countries to reduce emissions and prepare for a low-carbon future. He guides the reader through the climate change debate, and explains why Australia's contribution is vital to the national interest and matters to the global effort. He outlines a set of policies through which Australia can contribute its fair share without damaging Australian prosperity.

Professor Ross Garnaut's Review has featured prominently in Australian media this month:

- "Ross Garnaut, in the last report of his climate change review, has come directly to grips with the difficult politics of the issue... Garnaut is right. But it appears some industries, employees and consumers will take time to accept his prescriptions. Let us hope they get the point before it is too late" - Editorial in The Sydney Morning Herald, June 1, 2011
- "In contrast to the tone of most of the debate in Australia, Ross Garnaut projects a great optimism about the world's commitment to tackle global warming." - The Australian*, June 4, 2011
- "Professor Garnaut's report is a comprehensive work" - Climate Change Minister Greg Combet in The Age, May 31, 2011
