The Hard Slog

Australian Author

Australians in the Bougainville Campaign, 1944-45

By Dr Karl James

The island of Bougainville in the South Pacific was the site of one of the largest and most gruelling campaigns fought by Australian forces during the Second World War. During the offensive against the Japanese from November 1944 to August 1945, more than 500 Australians were killed and two Victoria Crosses awarded. A veteran later described Bougainville as 'one long bloody hard slog'. Despite this, little is known about the campaign, which was dismissed as an unnecessary and costly operation.

In the first major study of the Bougainville campaign since 1963, Karl James argues that it was in fact a justifiable use of Australia's military resources. Drawing on original archival research, including wartime reports and soldiers' letters and diaries, James illustrates the experience of Australian soldiers who fought.

Generously illustrated with over forty photographs, this important book tells how this often overlooked battle played an important part in Australia's Second World War victory.

Human Rights and Social Work

Towards Rights-Based Practice

3rd Edition

Australian Author

Now more than ever, this book is an indispensable resource for students, scholars and practitioners alike.

by Jim Ife

Social Work. Now in its third edition, Human Rights and Social Work explores how the principles of human rights inform contemporary social work practice. Both human rights and social work have traditionally been understood through the lens of an Enlightenment world view. Jim Ife explores the implications of social work's Enlightenment heritage and the possibilities of 'post-Enlightenment' practice in a way that is accessible and engaging. By examining the evolving nature of human rights, the book encourages social workers to apply a human rights framework to their practice.

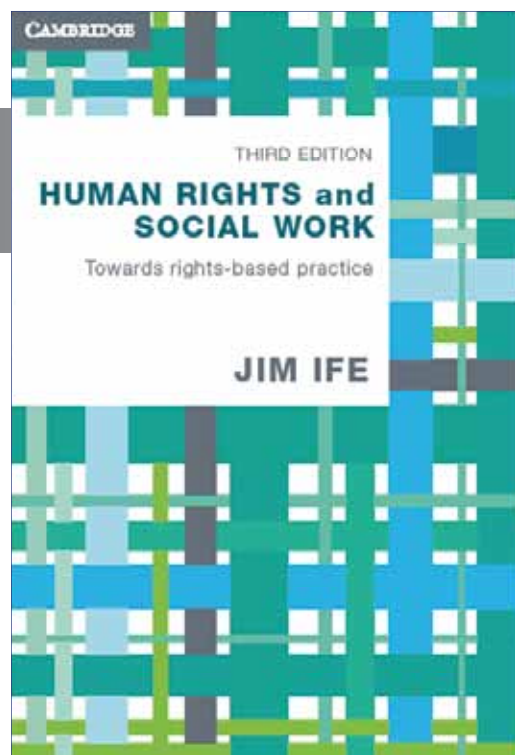

Key features:

- The world has changed significantly since the publication of the first edition in 2000 and this book is situated firmly within the context of present-day debates, concerns and crises
- Covers the importance of relating human rights to the non-human world, as well as the consequences of political and ecological uncertainty
- Features examples, further readings and a glossary, enabling readers to identify and investigate the important issues and questions arising from human rights and social work

The Tea Party

Three Principles

Takes on the mainstream media's characterisation of the American Tea Party movement.

by Elizabeth Price Foley, Florida International University

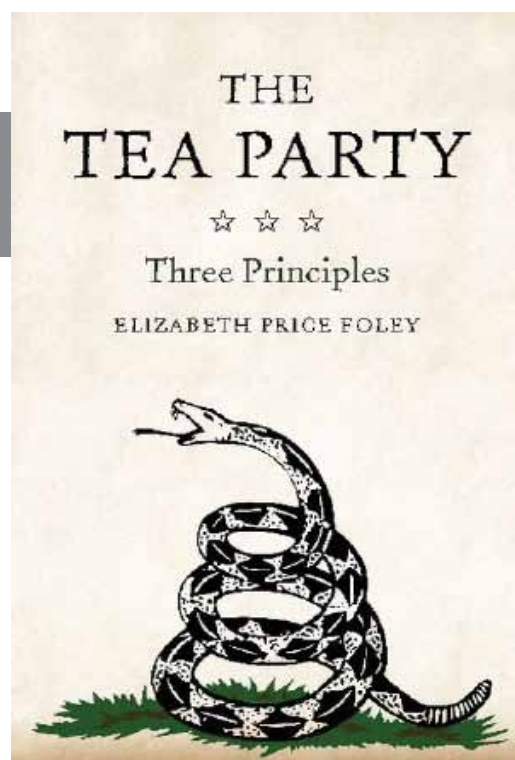

Politics. In this book, Elizabeth Price Foley asserts that the mainstream media's characterisation of the American Tea Party movement is distorted. Foley sees the decentralised, wide-ranging group as a movement bound by allegiance to three 'core principles' of American constitutional law: limited government, unapologetic US sovereignty and constitutional originalism. She explains how these principles predict the Tea Party's impact on the American political landscape.

Key features:

- Offers the only substantive explanation of what animates the Tea Party movement
- Connects the three principles of American constitutional law to current issues such as health care reform, illegal immigration, the war on terror, and internationalism

A History of Modern Libya

Second edition

by Dirk Vandewalle, Dartmouth College, New Hampshire

History. Dirk Vandewalle tracks Libya's story from the 1900s through Italian occupation, the Sanusi monarchy, revolution in 1969 and the Qadhafi era. Although agreement to give up weapons of mass destruction paved the way for improved relations with the West, an economy beyond retrieval and tribal and regional rivalries paved the way for revolution and civil war.

Complicity in the Holocaust

Churches and Universities in Nazi Germany

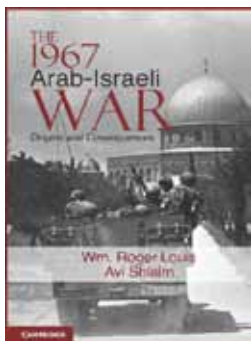

by Robert P. Ericksen, Pacific Lutheran University, Washington

History. In one of the darker aspects of Nazi Germany, churches and universities grew to accept and support Nazi ideology. Complicity in the Holocaust describes how the state's intellectual and spiritual leaders enthusiastically partnered with Hitler's regime. Ericksen also examines Germany's flawed yet successful postwar policy of denazification in these institutions.

Laughing at the Gods

Great Judges and How They Made the Common Law

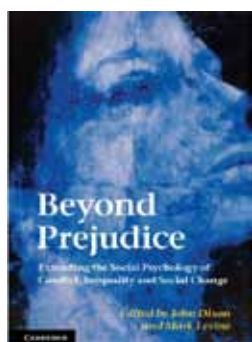

by Allan C. Hutchinson, Osgoode Hall Law School, York University, Toronto

Law. This book showcases eight judges that the author argues exemplify judicial greatness and looks at what role they play in law and society. It does not define what makes a great judge but postulates qualities of judges who in their judicial tenures have shown vision and inventiveness that, combined with the courage of their convictions, has fundamentally influenced the impact of law on society.

Chimpanzees of the Lakeshore

Natural History and Culture at Mahale

by Toshisada Nishida, Japan Monkey Centre

Life Sciences. Exploring the long-term studies carried out at Mahale, Tanzania, this book provides a fascinating introduction to chimpanzee behaviour. Topics include diet, hunting, development, play, female relationships, communication and male power-takeovers. Local variation in behaviour is also considered, showing that chimpanzees have 'cultures'.

The Encyclopedia of Australian Architecture edited by Philip Goad and Julie Willis

Following the hugely successful launch of 'The Encyclopedia of Australian Architecture' on the 16th of November, reviews were published in many major Australian newspapers, radio programs and magazines.

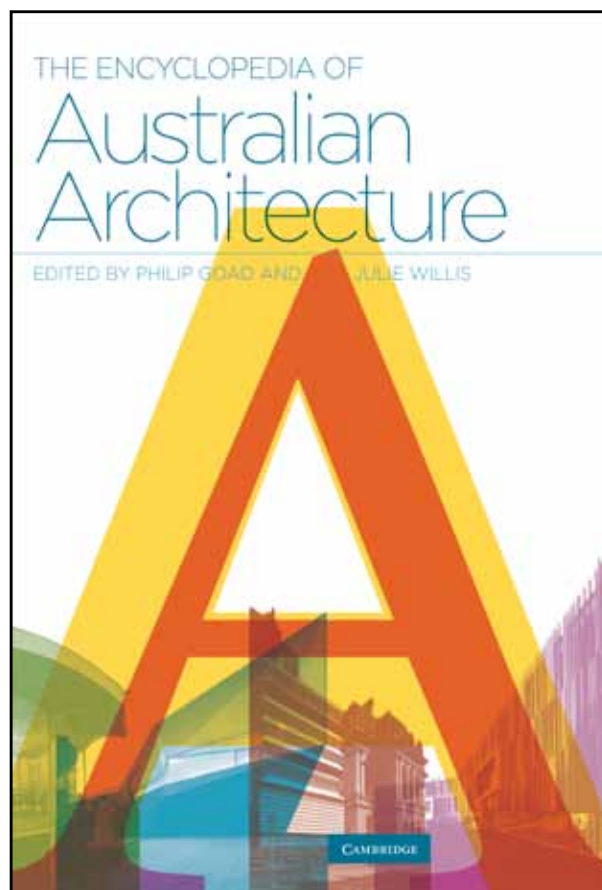

"I am certain that this publication will be landmark in the architectural and literary landscape." – Review in 'The Melbourne Review' by Peter Maddison, host of the Australian edition of 'Grand Designs', and award-winning architect and director of 'Maddison Architects Pty Ltd'.

"This is the encyclopedia we had to have. It deserves a place not just in every architect's office but in academic, public and private libraries and domestic dwellings everywhere." – West Australian News

"Alongside obvious landmarks like the Sydney Opera House are distinctively Australian vernacular subjects; the big merino, the dunny, flywire ad fibro." – The Age

"Alphabetically arranged, biographical and thematic in content, generous in its chronological coverage (especially of the last five decades), and truly national in scope" – Australian Garden History

"Rather than the agglomeration expected of an encyclopedia, the editors of 'The Encyclopedia of Australian Architecture' have provided more of a florilegium, a flowering of accounts from numerous voices, much more than one would expect from an encyclopedic view of the world." – Canberra Times
