A Short History of Ireland

Third Edition

By John O'Beirne Ranelagh

This third edition of John O'Beirne Ranelagh's classic history of Ireland incorporates contemporary political and economic events as well as the latest archaeological and DNA discoveries. Comprehensively revised and updated throughout, it considers Irish history from the earliest times through the Celts, Cromwell, plantations, famine, Independence, the Omagh bomb, peace initiatives, and financial collapse. It profiles the key players in Irish history from Diarmuid MacMurrough to Gerry Adams and casts new light on the events, North and South, that have shaped Ireland today. Ireland's place in the modern world and its relationship with Britain, the USA and Europe is also examined with a fresh and original eye.

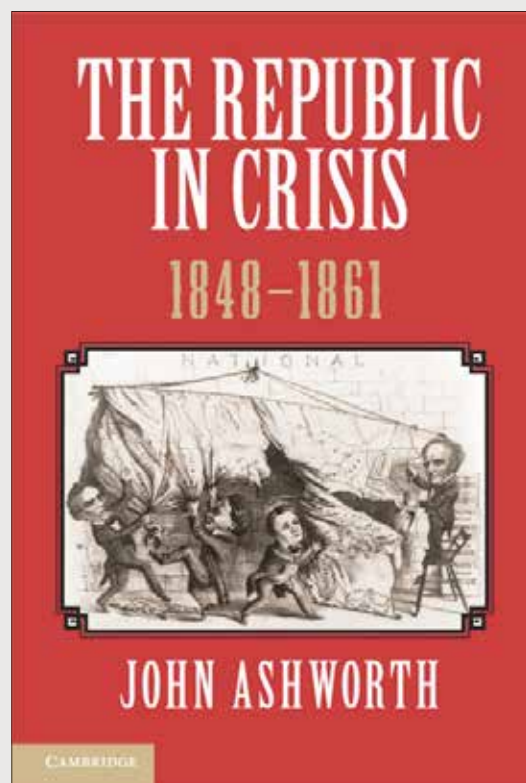

Worldwide interest in Ireland continues to increase, but whereas it once focused on violence in Northern Ireland, the tumultuous financial events in the South have drawn fresh interest. This is a new history for a new era.

The Republic in Crisis, 1848-1861

By John Ashworth

The Republic in Crisis, 1848-1861 analyzes the political climate in the years leading up to the Civil War, offering a clear, chronological account of the sectional conflict and the beginning of the Civil War. Emerging from the tumultuous political events of the 1840s and 1850s, the Civil War was caused by the maturing of the North and South's separate, distinctive forms of social organisation and their resulting ideologies.

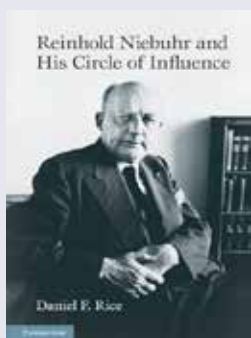

John Ashworth emphasizes factors often overlooked in explanations of the war, including the resistance of slaves in the South and the growth of wage labor in the North. Ashworth acquaints readers with modern writings on the period, providing a new interpretation of the American Civil War's causes.

Reinhold Niebuhr and His Circle of Influence

by Daniel F. Rice

Reinhold Niebuhr, the prominent American theologian, was one of the few religious figures who had a significant impact on the broader society outside the theological community during the twentieth century. This book presents Niebuhr in dialogue with seven individuals who each had a major influence on American life: the theologian Paul Tillich, philosopher/educator John Dewey, socialist Norman Thomas, historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., international political theorist Hans Morganthau, diplomat George Kennan, and Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, offering a survey of mid-twentieth-century theology, political thought and culture.

Law

Marriage at the Crossroads

Law, Policy, and the Brave New World of Twenty-First-Century Families

Edited by Marsha Garrison, Brooklyn Law School and Elizabeth Scott, Columbia University Law School

The institution of marriage is at a crossroads. Across most of the industrialized world, unmarried cohabitation and nonmarital births have skyrocketed while marriage rates are at record lows. This book provides tools to inform the debate and to assist policy makers in resolving questions about marriage at a critical juncture.

Segregation and Mistrust

Diversity, Isolation, and Social Cohesion

by Eric M. Uslaner, University of Maryland, College Park

Generalised trust – faith in people you do not know – is a value that leads to many positive outcomes for a society. Yet many now worry that an increasingly diverse society is a threat to trust and altruism. Eric M. Uslaner argues that it is segregation not diversity that makes people less trusting.

Alliance Formation in Civil Wars

by Fotini Christia, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

This book explains why Afghan warring groups constantly aligned with and double-crossed each other and develops a theory on behaviours in multiparty civil wars in general. It shows intergroup alliances and intra-group fractionalization are determined by the distribution of relative power among warring groups, rather than ethnicity, race, ideology or religion.
