Reading more deeply

Easy

Cantwell, J., 'Rising Tensions, 1760–1773' (pp. 51–94), America in Revolution, McGraw-Hill, Sydney, 2005.

This is a great book on the American Revolution. Cantwell is a current and highly regarded VCE Revolutions teacher, History Teachers' Association of Victoria lecturer and VCE Assessor. Most secondary school libraries at schools that teach the American Revolution will have a copy of this text.

Moderate

Ammerman, D., 'The tea crisis and its consequences, through 1775' (pp. 198–209), in J. Greene & J. Pole (eds), The Blackwell Encyclopedia of the American Revolution, Blackwell, Oxford, 1991.

A challenging and academic version of events from the 1765–1776 period. This whole book is challenging but the keen student can find a topic on virtually any aspect of the Revolution covered by one of the many historians that contribute to this book.

Challenging
